

THE RUNNING DUCKS

Adar Alfandari and drummer Matan Goldstein. Songs with dirty fuzz, heavy grooves and playful chaos - allowed to get louder, stranger and change shape without warning.

BIOGRAPHY

The Running Ducks began as the band assembled to tour Adar Alfandari's second solo album, Amateur Architect. The project refused to stay temporary and grew into its own thing - now a duo built on the creative partnership between Alfandari and drummer Matan Goldstein.

The songs sit somewhere between '90s alternative rock, garage grit and the kind of fuzz that has hair on it. Heavy grooves and sudden changes are part of the language, but the noise never pushes the song out of the way.

Based in Berlin, The Running Ducks are built for clubs, festivals and full-volume support slots. A new album is currently in the works.
